The HSSNM is Blooming and Booming

The HSSNM is really hopping into Springtime! We continue to work on the grounds and look for new projects in 2024. Our education connection is in full swing from 4th grade school tours, school presentations, and the 2024 HSSNM round of scholarships. The HSSNM will be unveiling some new video projects that are currently in progress as well, and through them we are excited to share the history of Roswell with the world. We believe the best is yet to come in 2024, and as usual, we need your support with our on-going projects. For instance, we might ask that you consider making a one-time donation to support our grounds improvements. Don't forget, every penny counts, and we continue to collect your loose change also. We continue to work and expand our new collections in our Archives via the Preserving Chihuahuita Project and New Oil and Gas Collections. We encourage you to work with us on these endeavors and contact our office to add to these collections that are so significant to our history. We want to give a special thank you to Miss Jane Anglin for her dedication and support to the HSSNM over the years and wish her and her family the very best on their future endeavors. We challenge you, the readers, to be the next Jane Anglin at the HSSNM. We need volunteers and the support of our members to get involved and consider giving tours at the museum, helping with our ground's projects, or even serving on our various committees. For additional information, please call our office and we will get you involved and plugged in to celebrate the rich history of our area. Last but certainly not least, THANK YOU to all of our members, which means you, for your support and dedication to the HSSNM. We have the honor and privilege of impacting lives, celebrating history with people from all over the world, and with you and through you, we look forward to a future of doing even more!
